BLUE GRASS FARM

FOR SALE.

THE Farm on which I now reside is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Lair's Station, on the K. C. R. R., at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within 3 hours ride of Cincinnati, and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred acres well timbered. The remainder cleared and in the highest state of cultivation. The fencing all in good order. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling, partly frame and partly log, weatherboarded and plastered and painted, containing six rooms, cook-house and all necessary out buildings, including two large stables, (with lots for feed,) large enough to house and feed 75 mules at a time which can be done without going out of doors, as there is large wide feed rooms extending the whole length of the stables, in which there is a cutting box run by horse power, with capacity and strength enough to cut a large quantity of provender in a short time. There is also a young orchard of select fruit of various kind now bearing. The farm is supplied with abundance of pure water for all purposes, as there is upon it a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling) and South Lick, which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will be sold for a reasonable price, the payments made easy and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.

I also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmyra on the road leading from there to Monticello, and about 16 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance prairie of good quality, a little rolling and dry, is in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settlers and finely improved farms. There is a large hand-saw brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

LINES.

BY ANNIE H. EDWARDS.
To my former schoolmate and friend,
Miss Mollie C. Lilly, of Harrison county.

When the shadows gather,
O'er the upland lea,
Softly thro' the twilight,
Memory brings to me,
Visions of my school days,
Forms of winning grace,
And o'er ev'ry other
Smiles one lovely face.

Dark eyes, clear and gentle
As the timid fawn,
Glowing cheeks, that rival
Lines of earliest dawn,
Rosebuds dewy laden,
Where the wild bee sips,
Are not richer, sweeter,
Than her dewy lips.

Rond her marble forehead,
Gleam the moonbeams bright,
And amid the tresses
Weave a crown of light,
While the evening zephyrs,
Floating through the air,
Pause, to see an earth born
Maiden all so fair.

I have group'd together,
Lillies, the soft and white,
With the stately Jessamine,
And the Fuchsia bright;
Here's the blushing Almond
Peeping in between,
Snowy, Orange flowers and Sprays of Ivy green.

In its jeweled holder,
I this off'ring send,
To my former school-mate,
Desk-mate, class-mate, friend,
Hoping she'll accept it,
Simple tho' it be,
Keeping in her pure heart,
One sweet thought of me.

Mrs. Blake's Visit to the White Mountains.

Almost everybody has took a tower this summer, and I've been and took one too. I don't know what I've as much right to as any other individual. I don't owe anybody nothing except Jim. Hanson, the tin peddler, for a strainer; and I've got more'n rags enuff to settle with him—or shall have when I cut up Caleb's cotton flannel shirt; and then I owe Tim Gore's wife three cents for getting me a pound of saleratus and not making the change.

I could pay her now just as well as not it she'd only take a siled postage stamp; but she don't take stamps for fear the post office would bust up. Miss Gore is the most cautionest woman that you ever saw.

I've had a hard summer's work of it, no mistake. It makes my back ache to think of it. Feed has been so high on account of the dry weather, that the cows has worked themselves clean into skellins a keeping from starving; and hain't give no milk worth mentioning.

Butter has been so scarce and high, that I've felt jest as if it was a sin to use it common; and I hain't allowed our folks none since last July. To be sure, I allas have butter on the table—a plateful on it; but if anybody goes for to tech it, I just tread on their toes, and give em a look that stops purselings at once.

One plateful has lasted all summer. I believe it's getting a leetle stiong now; but it'll have to do this month out I guess.

Along in June, sometime, Samuel White, he went up to the White Mountains; and when he got back he had more to tell than anybody that had been to the North Pole need to have had. All that he hadn't seen wasn't worth seeing.

He sot me in a fit to go and see for myself.

I spoke to Betsy Jane, my oldest, about it, but she only turned up her nose, and sed I'd better stay at home. Betsy is an awful hand to gab about herself, but she's never willing for me to stir outside the door. She's afraid she will have to wash the dishes. I never seed anybody quite so afraid of silling their hands as she is. She takes a sight of pains with 'em, and does 'em up in tattered rags every night to keep 'em smooth.

But as it happens, I haint under her government yet, so I made all my pepperrations just as if she was tickled to death with the idee of my going.

The first of August I sold ten cheeses, that come to a leetle rising seventy-five dollars.

I went to Dover rite off, and bought me a scarlet merino gown—a yallar satin bonnet, trimmed with blue and lalock colored roses; and the slickest green and blue shawl that ever you sot eyes on.

I got mesome new false hair—for, jest between you and me, mine is so thin, I can't do much with it; and then

I got a rat to roll it over, so's to make me look like a gal.

After I'd got determined to go, I went over and asked Aunt Peggy to go with me. She sed she'd like to, only she dassent go in the railroad, for she would sartainly expect it to blow up and karry every man woman and child with it. And as for a steam boat, it would be a sin to tempt providence by getting into one of them contrivances of satan.

So I told her to fix up to start in two days, and we'd go with the old mare. She is nigh onto seventeen years old, the mare is, and haint had nothing to eat all summer but out straw; but she's as spunky as a colt, if you tech her with the whip.

I got some new shafts put to the wagon, the old ones has been tied up with shoe strings this two years, and we dassent step onto one of 'em; and I took my green flannel petticoat and cushioned the seat, and put a branded rig into the bottom for our feet to set on, and my red and blue calico comforter to take up in front of us on cold mornings.

We had considerable baggage; but then it takes a great deal for females that pertend to beladies. I had three bandboxes, a capbox, a carpetsack full of gingerbread, an umberrella, a parasol, a peck measure to feed the horse with, a spare shawl, a bottle of liniment, in case I should be took with the newwology, and a clothes line to tie the old mare with.

Aunt Peggy, she had two boxes, a valisee, a satchel of turnovers, a sugar box of donuts, a six quart pail of pickles, two baskets of apples and Bounce, her dog.

I objected to her taking him, but she sed she wouldn't be separated from him for no money. She couldn't go to sleep o' nights without him on her feet.

The first day we traveled six miles and hauled up by the side of the road for repairs. One eend of the wagon seat broke down, but I put the pail of pickles on top of the sugar box, and stuck them under the seat, and made it all right.

The next day we did better. We went c'e-namost twenty miles. I held the reins and Aunt Peggy she did the whipping, and the old mare went like a boss.

Lots of folks bantered me to swop hosses, but I told them we didn't have time to talk with 'em, I was bound for the White Mountains.

Aunt Peggy had the worst of it. Her arm was so sore after a day or two, that she could skereerly git it to her head.

At the eend of five days we got in sight of the mountains, and stopped at a small house rite under the mountain, and close to quite a small little pond of water. The grandest place to raise geese and ducks that ever was.

I was purty much tuckered out, and asked to be showed to my room rite off. Four tow-headed children, fighting for the one taller-dip that lit the way, led off. Aunt Peggy, she couldn't get into the room till after I was abed, it was so small, and she staid outside and let me go fast. The door to it was off the hinges, and I told the young ones to set it up close and put a cheer agin it. Naterly, I expected them to obey me, so I went to taking off hair, and pulling out my rat, when I heard a giggling outside, and on look'g at the door, I seed that it didn't shet by as much as two inches, and that space was full of eyes peeping at me.

'Mother! mother?' called one of the boys, 'this woman is peeling her head! Quick, only see her.'

I was mad, and afore I thought anything about the condition of the door I grabbed hold of it to open it, and down it went bang into the floor, knocking over five children, two cheers, a cat, a table full of crockery, a pole of chickens that was roostin in the kitchen, and about all standin creation.

I appollergized as well as I could, and explained to the folks that I was not used to ondressin before so many spectators, and they sent them off to bed.

I was real mortified. For a widdier woman that may think of marryin agin to be ketched takin off her false hair that everybody thinks is her own natral locks.

Howsomeber I comforted myself up with a idee that there wasn't no onmarried men about the house. When I finished ondressing, I hung my clothes out of the winder to make room for Aunt Peggy to come in; and a half hour afterwards we were in the arms of Murphy.

We started early next mornin and by drivin the old mare hard, we managed to git to the Glen House about dark. That is a nice tavern rite at the foot of Mount Washington.

There was a black bear tied in front of it to prevent people from robbin the clothes lines and hen houses. Bounce flew rite at the bear; but arter he'd lost a mouthful of hair and skin, was glad to come back and behave himself.

I asked the landlord if he could put us up. He sed he was sorry, but he was full. I asked him if he couldn't give us a bed on the floor. He sed it was out of the question. Then I asked him if I couldn't roost somewhere. He scratched his head a minit, and sed we might have the dining room table.

He led off the old mare, and we went into the house. The floors everywhere was kivered with people wrapped up in shawls, blankets, and comfortables, and snoring like all possessed.

We eat our supper, and then got the comfortable and the braided rug out of the wagon, and by the help of a cheer we hoisted ourselves onto the table and turned in.

I soon got asleep, and dreamed that Captain Chamberlain was a trying to kiss me, and in the scrimmage I thrashed over, and off I rolled, rite onto a fat man who was layin close by the table, snoring loud enuff to split the universe.

I knocked the snore clean out of him and smashed his watch-crystal and his patent double-barrelled squizzing glass all to flinders, and scraped all the skin off my left elbow.

The fat man roared awfully, and skereed some of the people nigh about out of their wits. Most of them thought the house was afire, and the way they gathered up their baggage was lively. As soon as it was mornin, I made my toilet as well as I could, though I had a pretty tough time to make my rat look decent with so many folks a starrin at me. As for a lookin glass, I hain't seen my face since I left home.

I asked the landlord what about going up onto the top of Washington, for I hain't a grate while to stay.

He sed that most people went up in 'keridges that belonged to the hotel, though some folks puttrned their own teams.

I told him that I should go with my own team, then; and I was acquainted with the old mare, and she was acquainted with me. He advised me to leave my baggage with him, but I told him no, I'd rather have it under my own eye.

We started real airy. The sun wasn't up afore we was on the keridge road. Ever seen it? If you haint, you've missed seeing one of the slickest roads in the country. It's about nine miles long, and jest as smooth and even as yer perior floor, but its awfully up hill.

They made us pay some money for going onto the road at a little house by a bridge, down at the bottom of the mountain. I told them I thought that was mean when we had come so fur, but law! you needn't expect a mean man to be born over agin into a generous one.

The sun come out pretty hottish, and afore we had gone a mile that hoss was as wet as if he'd been dipped into the river. Aunt Peggy and I got out and walked apiece. And after a spell, I took out two of my bandboxes and lugged them to lighten the load; and Aunt Peggy did the same by her valisee, and the pail of pickles. Bounce he trudged along behind, and a sorrier looking dog you never seed. Every mite of the wag had gone out of his tail, and his ears hung down like two wilted cabbage leaves.

It was c'e-namost sunset when we got to the top, and the old mare was clean tuckered out. For the last half mile I had to hawl her by the bridle, and Aunt Peggy she pushed behind.

We couldn't see nothing but a couple of houses built out of rocks, and lots more of rocks laying all around, just as somebody had carted them there for a stone wall.

I slept tip-top that night in the Tip Top House, or the Summit, I've forgot which. There was two of 'em there and I disremember tother from which. The mornin was clear. We seed a sight o' things. It was equal to bein up in Squire Horrock's garret winder, only moreso.

We picked up some rocks and moss to show when we got home, and started to go down the mountain. I rid in and Aunt Peggy walkin.

We was a goin down a pretty steep place, when the old mare pricked her ears at a stick in the road, jumped, and law me! that wagon parted, I bounced out—the hoss kerried off the forrad wheels, and the rest of the consarn, baggage and all, went tumbling to destruction down a slantindickular presipiss more'n a hundred feet higher than the steeple of our meetin house.

I screeched and clambered down after my valierbals as fast as I could, but dear me, they was all ruined, everything except these bandboxes, two carpet-bags, and an umbrill. The wagon was all stove to kindling. I picked up the remnants and clambered back with them. Aunt Peggy and I strung 'em onto a pole and lugged 'em down to the Glen House.

There we found the old mare, with the fragments of them forrad wheels tied to her, but she looked as sober as a judge.

We stayed there all night, and the next mornin, sot sail for home. I'd seen enuff.

I led the hoss, and Aunt Peggy kerried one eend of the pole on which the bandboxes and bags was strung, and I kerried the other; Bounce he skulked behind.

Folks lallied at us on the way, but they lallied at their betters. Nobody kereed for 'em.

Thank goodness! we got home at last, though I haint been able to go a step since, my newwology is so bad; and Aunt Peggy haint wore a shoe for a month. Partly because her feet is sore, and partly because she haint got none to wear. Well, anyhow, we made the tow.

Some one, signing himself "Aug. Ditson," a stranger to us, but doubtless a lenial descendant of Baron Munchausen, has written a column and a half to the Cincinnati Gazette about the killing of Crawls, the mobbing of his murderers, the repulse of Col. Rice and his band, and the rout of a scout before an imaginary band of regulators. That all this is false, either wholly or by exaggeration, any one acquainted with the facts will easily believe. We understand the facts are—Joseph Crawl, a young lad remarkably pure character, was brutally murdered by a couple of negroes. The negroes were mobbed, one shot and one hanged. The one shot is said to have implicated some citizens, among them another Crawl and a Fitzgerald. Threats were made by certain negroes that they would try the mob law awhile and hang them.

Col. Rice, with a squad of some eight or ten mounted soldiers, went to arrest Crawl and Fitzgerald. These men, believing the soldiers to be a negro mob, resisted. Fitzgerald guarded a window and did no firing. Crawl did all the firing, and with one revolver. He wounded Rice and one soldier, and put the remainder to flight. Fitzgerald was a federal, Crawl a federal employee; there was no rebel in the matter. It was entirely a family quarrel, in which they repulsed a Lieut. Colonel and his squad. The story about the regulators running a scout on Saturday night is all gas. Arbitrary arrests were made. These are the facts. But the radical party north can be aided by scattering falsehoods through the north, and it is done.

We are not acquainted with Col. Rice; we regret his hurts were so severe. But we feel certain that if he had gone in the day time with warrants in his hands, he would have found no trouble in making the arrests.—Obs. & Rep.

'I don't want to,' said he.

'I wish you would,' responded the father.

'I won't' was the reply; 'I'll be dadd blamed if I do.'

A sickly, half-approving smile passed over the face of the father, as he said, in explanation of his son's brusquerie: 'Tom don't lack manners generally, but the fact is he's got such a cold he's almost a fool.'

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS

CYNTHIANA, KY.

THURSDAY, May 10, 1866

A. J. MOREY, Editor.

The Democratic Senatorial Convention met in Cynthiana last Monday. It was a very respectable body, made up of the best men in these three counties, all of whom were pure democrats; and whatever may have been for the best interest of the country. Its proceedings were harmonious and regular, and as soon as the organization was complete, they proceeded to balloting, and nominated T. A. Martin, of this place, the Democratic standard-bearer for the Senate. Mr. Martin is a firm and unflinching state rights Democrat, and has opposed the abolition tyrants, usurpers and boards that have been scourging the people of the United States for the past six years. We have confidence in the political integrity of Mr. Martin, and believe that he will correctly represent the people of this District. He is a man of energy and ability, and it will never be said that he was idle or failed to attend to his duties and his constituency. He will receive a large majority in all the counties, which he is nominated to represent. See the proceedings in another column.

At last, we are happy to announce to our readers that Jefferson Davis again breathes the free air of heaven. After an incarceration of more than two years in prison, without the shadow of law, he has been admitted to bail. The nation can never wipe the stigma of disgrace attending the infamous act of retaining so long a state prisoner which they would not release or grant a trial. The particulars are as follows: He was brought to Richmond, Va., on a writ of habeas corpus, and was discharged, but was immediately re-arrested upon an indictment of treason, for which he gave bail to the amount of $100,000, Horace Greely being the first to go his surety followed by prominent men of New York and Philadelphia. We suppose this will be an end of the whole matter, for it is absurd to think that the prosecutors will carry this matter any further.

At a meeting of the Democracy of this Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Scott, Harrison and Robertson, met, pursuant to a call, at the court house in Cynthiana, on the 13th of May, 1866. The meeting being called to order by W. H. Forsythe, N. Craig, Esq., of Scott, was chosen chairman, and A. J. Beale Secretary.

The chair then explained the object of the meeting to be the selection of a candidate to represent this Senatorial District in the next General Assembly of Kentucky.

The first business of the convention was the appointment of a committee on credentials, whereupon the delegates from each county selected the following named gentlemen for said committee: Scott, C. Ward, P. Thomas and Jos. Northcutt; Harrison, W. H. Forsythe, T. A. Frazer, and P. Wherrett; Robertson, J. R. Linville, Col. S. T. Hamilton and W. V. Prather.

During the consultation of the committee, the chairman was called upon for a speech, which he responded to in an able and dignified manner, eliciting much applause.

The committee on credentials reported the following named gentlemen as delegates from Scott: Newton, Craig, A. Thomas, Jos. Northcutt, J. R. Jones, P. Thomas, S. Kelly, C. Ward, J. W. Longear, T. B. Heazlett, W. Robb, George Pruitt, A. Lilaek and S. Speigle.

Robertson, J. Harding, J. E. Brown, W. V. Prater, Jno R. Linville, N. Cumber, C. French, C. Brambel, Col. S. T. Hamilton and W. H. Vanhook; and that the basis for the vote to be cast should be one for every one hundred given Duvall in 1866, which arrangement entitled Scott to 17 votes, Harrison 15 and Robertson 9.

Nominations now being declared in order, P. Wherrett nominated I. T. Martin, Esq., of Cynthiana, and A. Thomas, Esq., of Scott, nominated Col. W. P. Duvall, of Scott. No other nominations being made the convention proceeded to vote. Harrison cast 15 votes for Martin, Robertson 9 for Martin, Scott 17 for Duvall. The result showing Martin as having received 24 votes and Duvall 17.

A Thomas then moved to make the nomination unanimous, which was done.

Mr. Martin was then declared the nominee, and the chair then appointed T. A. Frazer to wait upon Mr. Martin and inform him of his nomination. He soon appeared and addressed the meeting in an eloquent speech, returning thanks for the honor conferred upon him.

Col. Duvall was then called and took the stand and made a most excellent speech, expressing himself as fairly beaten and that he cordially endorsed the proceedings of the meeting.

For the Cynthiana News.

Lexington, May 10, '66.

Mr. Editor:—

"Cynthianians" impressions of Lexington and its people may not be entirely devoid of interest to many of the readers of your valuable paper. The city, at present, contains about 17,000 inhabitants, of whom at least, 10,000 belong to the Caucasian, the balance to the African race. The former are, therefore not only still the more numerous, but evidently still constitute the dominant class, despite the fact that the newly made citizens of African descent is in possession of his freedom.

Lexington, in proportion to its size, is one of the wealthiest cities in America, as it is certainly one of the most beautiful. It possesses many attractions to the stranger who visits it. The streets, mostly lined with trees putting on nature's dress of green, are cleanly and sufficiently wide to permit a fine circulation of fresh air. The public edifices and business houses, while they are not gaudy in their architectural structure; present mostly a neat and model appearance, whilst the private residences are models of taste and neatness. But the most striking feature noticeable to the stranger, are the refined manners of the white population, as compared with those of the inhabitants of larger cities. An urbanity and a high-toned bearing are observable, which, being innate, distinguish them in their social and business intercourse; and these qualities, added to a quick native sense and intelligence exact admiration and esteem. But still more in one particular respect, Lexington is famous beyond any city in America; and that is, in the beauty of her women. If handsome and accomplished ladies add anything to the credit of a city, Lexington most certainly is entitled to a vast share. It is true, the population of Lexington, while it does not boast of the pompous, but hollow majesty, of the Queen City, yet possesses many sources of enjoyment, none the less genuine, because the less pretending. To those familiar with the comparison which Bulwer draws between the beautiful campanian city of ancient Italy, that "darling of the deep," and the proud pretensions capital of the Roman Empire, his description will not appear inappropriate if applied in contrasting these two modern cities. But may Kentucky's noblest city be more fortunate than the ill-fated Pompeii, whose licentiousness and unblushing iniquities called down upon it the avenging fires of Vesuvius.

Littsburg is noted for its factories; Cincinnati for its flour and pork interests; Baltimore is called the city of monuments; but Lexington may be called the city of schools. They manifest a deep interest in the cause of education. There are here, some of the best institutions of learning that can be found in the country, and they are liberally patronized. Nearly every second or third person you meet in the street carries a book in his hand. As the young Indian grows to manhood in the daily exercise of his bow and arrow, so the youth of Lexington learns early to familiarize himself with the use of books. The fine arts, too, are sedulously cultivated. Poets, artists and scholars flourish here; and now, as I write, the rich strains of an orchestra rush in at my window, while from across the street the soft and gentle notes of a piano, accompanied with the still more gentle voice of woman are stealing in and making delicious music.

Lexington contains and supports three newspapers, which are issued semi-weekly; and here I must say it does not come up to its established reputation for its liberal patronage of the cause of enlightened process. A city with the population that Lexington contains, ought to support one or two daily papers; especially when the large amount of business which is carried on here, is taken into consideration. The business men depend on the Cincinnati papers for their daily news.

Of the papers now published, the Observer & Reporter has the most extensive circulation, and is deservedly popular with the people, for it is very ably edited, and the managers are among the cleverest and most polite of gentlemen. Both the Gazette and Statesman are semi-weekly papers, conducted with success and considerable ability.

In one other feature, Lexington is unlike most of the cities farther north. Every second or third door is not marked with the sign above it, "Lager Beer," which betrays an absence of the German element. In lieu of that, the eyes of the visitor occasionally are greeted, in large capitals, with something like this: "Bourbon from 2 to 12 years old." But notwithstanding the absence of "lager," one meets about as many, in proportion to the population, who are weighed down with a huge unwieldy corpulency, as are found in the lager beer cities of New York or Cincinnati. Bourbon has pretty much the same effect that is attributed to the lager beer.

The numerous livery and sale stables found all over the city are evidences of the prevailing partiality which the inhabitants entertain for the sports and recreations of horsemanship.

The disciples of Esculapius are here to be pitted; for to them, it must be distressingly healthy. Sickness resulting fatally, I am told, is very rare, and no means are spared which are calculated to preserve the general health of the city. This is especially a desirable place to live to those who possess sufficient wealth to retire from business. For the quiet and temperate pursuits of pleasure, and the enjoyment of life's peaceful blessings it is unequalled. J. F. L.

Maj. Bloom requests all who have made contracts with blacks to have them registered. If any have orphan children and wish them apprenticed call at the office over the post office.

A Ben Butler club has been organized in New Orleans.

It is strongly hinted that some of Brownlow's militia are to be sent to the Northwest to fight the Indians, as soon as the election is over.

The Knoxville and Kentucky Railroad company will in a short time complete their depot at Knoxville. The road is to be pushed vigorously forward to completion.

A reporter, describing certain races not long since, closes by saying: "There was a mule race late in the afternoon, which was doubtless very amusing, but as we had other fish to fry, we did not remain to participate in it."

A lady named Mrs. Julia Synnot, who lives on Union street, about half a mile from the Pigeon Roost road, chanced to be left alone on Wednesday night, her husband having gone to Texas. The fact was known to a colored family living about three hundred yards from the house of Mrs. Synnot, and about 10 o'clock at night she, who had gone to bed, was awakened by some one making a noise on the outside of the house. She went to the window, and saw a negro sitting on the fence. She asked what he wanted, and he replied by asking if some one whom he named lived there. She told him no such person lived there. The negro asked a number of questions, and was told not to make so much noise, as he might wake some one in the house. This was said to deter him, as she became apprehensive that he would try to rob the house. He said he didn't care, and said that he knew that there was nobody in the house. He immediately picked up a brick and threw it at the window. It broke one of the slats of the blind. The place is some distance from any other house, and she became alarmed; so going to another room she procured a revolver and waited. The negro threw some bricks at the window, and finally commenced tearing out the slats of the blinds as if he intended to force an entrance. She not knowing what outrages he contemplated, raised the pistol and fired. The negro groaned and jumped back. She could not hear him, and waited in momentary expectation of his return, but she waited there till daylight. When it became light, she perceived him lying on the ground. She ran out a back way and alarmed the neighbors, who repaired to her house and picking up the negro, found him shot through the heart. He was found to be John McEwin who lived in the house close by. A coroner's inquest was held on the body, and the conduct of Mrs. Synnot entirely justified.—Memphis Avalanche.

The people of Augusta, Ga., have been thrown into a state of feverish excitement by the sudden and mysterious disappearance of Mr. Patrick Gray, a prominent business man of that city, which occurred last Sunday night. Nothing is known to have been preying upon his mind to lead him to any violent act. A reward of $1,000 is offered by his relatives for information of his fate.

It is regarded as an unfavorable symptom of the times that flour in the North is worth twenty dollars per barrel. They are shipping grain to the West which was grown in California; was shipped to New York, and thence to Liverpool and back. This remarkable and unnatural state of things seems strong evidence of a great monetary convulsion.

It is intimated that the little effort made to secure a Southern man in the Cabinet was for the benefit of his excellency Joe. Brown, of Georgia. It is very well then that Postmaster General Randall's resignation was not accepted.

A difficulty occurred in Lexington the other day, between a negro and a white man named James Mulloy, in which the latter was stabbed and killed.

The post master in this place, offers his office boxes for sale, and we think it would be a much better plan for the citizens, and a certain way to secure his mail. Every man should have a box.

We regret to learn that the Hon. Elijah Hise, of the Third Congressional District, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head with a pistol, on Thursday, May 9, 1867.

Circuit court, Judge Donaphan on the bench, continues to have plenty of business for the legal fraternity of this region. There seems to be an improvement in litigation at least of civil suits.

Mr. Charles Rieckel, the jeweler on Main street, has received a large and fine assortment of watches, gold and silver, together with an endless variety of gold rings. To appreciate his new styles, we advise our friends to call and see for themselves.

We hear that many dogs in certain sections of the country, are running mad, and that not a few people have been bitten. We say to our readers beware of dogs. Our city council should adopt an ordinance or dog law.

A Democratic Convention is to be held at Leesburg on Saturday May 18, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the purpose of appointing delegates to the county convention to be held in Cynthiana county court day in June. By order of Committee.

Mr. Geo. H. Fightmaster and one Charles Wilson, having taken too much strong drink, became boisterous and pounded each other some, for which they were permitted to pay the Mayor of our city, ten dollars each.

The style which the Covington Railroad company proposes to build their depot at this place don't suit us entirely. If we owned the road, a depot should be made that would occupy both sides of the road, and have the cars stop in the depot instead of at the depot. Can't you stand that Mr. Keith?

Thos Megibben reports that on Monday last, a heavy hail storm passed over his portion of country, Lairs Station, and that all his wheat and barley is destroyed, and that he will have to feed it down. It was a small section of country where the hail fell.

County-court day, last Monday, was quite a brisk day. The cry of the auctioneer was heard, selling property to the highest bidder, as well as the shouts of an occasional "walking pickle," enthused with whisky and politics. With the exception of seven or eight knock-downs, (in which nobody was hurt,) the town held its own for quietness, as well as usual.

How soothing, how sublimely beautiful are the sweet strains of melody as they come borne to us upon the wings of evening; how it fills the heart with gladness! Yet, midst all this joy and happiness, how it mars our pleasure to meet our neighbors or companions suffering from the ravages of a violent cough or an obstinate cold. The soothing, quieting propensities of Coc's Cough Balsam allays all the irritations, and will speedily cure the most obstinate cases of croup, cough sore throat and influenza.

A bouquet was presented to us the other day, the first of the season. 'Twas a fair assortment of early spring flowers, and was gathered by "two friends," with but a single thought, and whose hearts, they said, beat as one. That, according to Parthenia, is love itself, and if the bouquet came in that spirit, (and we have no reason to doubt it,) we accept it with a heart overflowing with thankfulness.

'Twas a lovely thought to mark the hours As they floated in light away, By the opening and folding flowers That laugh to the summer's day: Oh! let us live, so that flower by flower, Shutting in turn may leave A fragrant trail for the sunset hour, A charm for the faded eve.

MAY DAY FESTIVITIES.—On Saturday last, the good people in the vicinity of Ruddle's Mills, permitted themselves and their little ones to enjoy the festivities of a May Day. Mr. Stratton, the principal of the school in town, and Mr. Shirliff, principal of the suburban institute united their efforts and their pupils, and made a grand affair of the celebration. The young ladies were arrayed in all their beauty and grandeur, with "white" as the order of the day, decorated in evergreens and spring flowers. They all had smiles on their faces and love in their hearts, and seemed to vie with nature itself in a thankfulness for the return of spring, and flowers, and green foliage, and singing birds, and the warm rays of the bright summer-sun-shine.

There were two May Queens, one for each school. Miss Sallie H. Howard, was Queen from Mr. Shirliff's school, and Miss Mollie Wills, Miss J. Howard, Miss M. Marston and Miss Maggie Howard were the Maids of Honor.

Miss Lavina Stoker, from Mr. Stratton's school, was Queen of May, and Miss Alice Stoker, Matie Hutzell, Miss Jose Lindsay Miss Alice Montgomery and Miss Kimbrough were the Maids of Honor.

These little ladies were all very pretty, and passed through the exercises excellently. They gave spring a hearty as well as a modest welcome.

Now do a choir of chirping minstrels bring In triumph to the world, the youthful spring The valley, hills and woods, in rich array. Welcome the coming of the long'd for May. Now all things smile.

When the Queen's had finished their court exercises, they were all invited to a sumptuous dinner.

The ladies in that portion of God's country, understand what is needed for occasions of this kind, and we feel that they are not in need of our compliments, yet, we will express ourselves at all times, and we beg their pardons for saying that we think that the festivities, the dinner and the whole affair was gotten up in fine style. The day passed off without an accident or disturbance of any kind.

We are authorized to announce Mr. S. T. Wall as a candidate for nomination for the office of commonwealth's attorney in this Judicial District, to be elected in August next.

We are authorized to announce Wm. C. Marshall, of Augusta, a Democratic candidate for commonwealth's attorney in this Judicial District.

LYON'S PERIODICAL DROPS!
The Great Female Remedy for Irregularities!!
I HAVE tested these Drops in my own practice, over ten years, and do not hesitate to say, that nothing has yet been developed by medical research, that acts so powerfully, positively and harmlessly, in cases of female irregularity, as does this medicine. In all recent cases, it never fails, while thousands who have been long sufferers, are indebted to it for the boon of health to-day.
Although so powerful and positive, they perfectly harmless, and may be used at all times, except when specially forbidden in the directions.
They have been extensively employed by eminent physicians in France and England, as well as in my own practice, over ten years, and I have yet to hear of the first instance of failure. I could give you testimonials of their efficacy from ladies all over the Northern and North Western States, were they not in their nature, private. Over 100,000 bottles have been sold the last year, and I hope and trust as many sufferers have been benefited. I am well aware that a remedy so potent to remove all obstructions, may be used for a bad purpose, but trust that when a bottle is thus used, it may fall into the hands of really needy sufferers.
To all who suffer from any irregularity: painful, difficult, excessive, offensive or obstructed Menstruation, Leucorrhoea, or any train of diseases that follow, I would say, try a bottle of Dr. Lyon's French Periodical Drops. Being a fluid preparation, their action is more direct and positive than any pills or powders. Explicit directions, bearing my facsimile, accompany each bottle.
They may be obtained of nearly every druggist in the country, or by enclosing the price to C. G. Clark & Co., New Haven, Ct. General Agents for the United States in Canada.
DR. JOHN L. LYON.
Practicing Physician, New Haven, Ct.
Price $1.50 per Bottle. Mar 28-ly

THIS distinguished saddle and premium Stallion, will serve a limited number of mares this present season on the Main Farm between Paris and Lexington and Lexington Station, leading from Paris and near Houston Station, at $20 the season, with the privilege of breeding the same mare back next season if she does not prove to be with foal. Provided I sell the horse and a mare does not get a foal the money will be returned, but the breeder must run the risk of the horse dying. Mares can be sent and left with the horse before or after foaling, and will receive the attention of a No. 1 groom, and grazed or grain fed at a reasonable price. ## REPARATOR CAPILLI.

Throw away false frizzes, tresses and wig. Destructive of comfort, and not worth a fig. Come aged, come youthful, ugly and fair, And rejoice in your own luxuriant hair.

Reparator Capilli, for restoring the hair upon bald heads, (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say, how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try the Repurator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representations. If your druggists do not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, post-paid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned to you on application, provided entire satisfaction is not given. ## ASTROLOGY.

THE WORLD ASTONISHED.

At the wonderful revelations made by the great astrologist, Madame H. A. Ferrigo. She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful secrets, catastrophes, losses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and position of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair. Address: Madame H. A. Ferrigo, P. O. drawer 293 Buffalo, N. Y. feb28-ly.
